THE WORLD'S PRODUCTION OF GOLD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.

Mr. George B. Roberts, the Director of the Mint, has prepared a statement of the world's production of gold and silver for the calendar year 1904. This statement shows total gold valued at $947,150,740, an aggregate of 148,603,688 fine ounces of silver and a commercial value of silver totaling $97,724,800, the coinage value of which is $217,440,900.

The figures submitted show an increase of about $22,100,000 in gold over the 1903 estimate for the calendar year 1903. The United States shows a gain of about $7,000,000 and South Africa of $18,000,000. The director says that both of these countries are still upon a rising scale of production. Australia, on the other hand, is an important producer which shows a tendency to reduce its contribution, although the falling off is not large and may be temporary. Continuing development in Australia holds it out as a reasonable forecast to expect the world's output in 1905 to exceed that of 1904 by $25,000,000, with another gain probable in 1906. The report says:

"The most important goldfield in the world is that of the Transvaal, and for that the data for working costs and profit is quite incomplete. The output for 1904 was $78,180,728, produced by twenty-five companies. Their working profits, after paying the 10 per cent. tax on profits to the Government, are reported at $28,400,163. The amount actually divided in dividends was $19,114,784. Only thirty-five companies paid dividends, those producing 70 per cent of the total yield. The cost of production per ton, on rock handled was practically the same as in 1903."

FOOTBALL IN AMERICA.

New York, Oct. 5.

American sportsmen are discussing an attempt now being made in this country to induce the leading colleges and football clubs generally to follow the English example of surrendering the Rugby game for Association.

The feeling in favor of the change is found chiefly in the newspapers whose editors do not make a conspicuous feature of any other sport but horse-racing and baseball. In New York a journal that does not specialize its turf and is a baseball game reports nature from a disinterested and diminishing clientele.

But the enthusiasm for football in America never approaches the English excitement over the career of the Tottenham Hotspurs or the Sheffield United, and accordingly it is not surprising that a certain body of opinion considers the Rugby game as played by Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, and Columbia the institution of brutality, and favors the attempt to introduce Association, which the Americans apparently believe could be played by college men without the presence of an audience on the ground.

A correspondent says his own experience of the young American football players is that the rougher the game the more fascinating they find it. They glory in a broken collar-bone if achieved in administering defeat to a rival college, just as the German student takes a supreme pride in displaying the last country on earth to America in a spurious because it happens to involve the publication of periodical casualty lists.

At the same time the presence of the English team of Pilgrim Soccer, who after a triumphant Canadian tour last year first met an international Association football club, and the visit may help to create in America love for the essentially British game, which at the Crystal Palace every spring rises to the dignity of the institutions of the country.

THE LIVER IS A GOOD FRIEND, BUT A BAD ENEMY.

The liver is a large and powerful organ, composed of a great mass of blood vessels, nerves, and bile channels, held together by a red-brown substance. The liver's great work is to supply the bile, which helps to prepare our food for converting into reach, life-giving blood.

But when the liver becomes sluggish, there is not enough bile made to digest the food, so the blood is impure (this, pale and watery, weakens the body). The complexion will be yellow, and the food ferments, giving off bad gases which cause flatulency, headache, and foul breath. The bowels become clogged, and constipation begins.

One of the first signs of a sluggish liver is a feeling of drowsiness and weakness (due to the impure blood circulating in the body). The complexion will be yellow, and the food ferments, giving off bad gases which cause flatulency, headache, and foul breath. The bowels become clogged, and constipation begins.

Veritable slugs, they have prompt treatment, and in its early stages, careful dieting, in conjunction with a thorough course of Doan's Kidney Pills, will effect a cure. If neglected, however, the liver and the action of the organ may be ruined; there will be dyspepsia, anemia, and perhaps skin disease. The muscles that drive out the poisons will be weakened, and there will be constipation. Doan's Kidney Pills will be of great service in this case, as they give a healthy stimulus to the liver, so that sufficient bile is produced to digest the food and ease the passage of waste.

Doan's Kidney Pills are the best medicine for biliousness, indigestion, constipation, headache, nervous prostration, yellow eyes, rheumatism, and for every other ailment connected with the liver and bowels.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 1 1/2 boxes, or 4 boxes for $1.00. They are sold everywhere, or by mail from Doan's Medicine Company, 263 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. They are sold in London, England, at Messrs. J. & J. G. S. & Co., 10, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4.

December 5, 1904.

ALMOST EVERYONE, AT THE END OF SUMMER, FEELS WILDED AND RUN DOWN. We wonder how we stood the heat of January and February so well, only to collapse when the weather is appreciably cooler. The reason is that the Summer stain is just beginning to tell on us. We need to CLEAR THE SYSTEM OF POISONOUS WASTES, and to regulate the Liver and Kidneys into action again. IN CHOOSING AN APERIENT we look for certainty of result, gentleness of action, and palatableness. LAXATIVE, THE WORLD FAMOUS HUNGARIAN APERIENT, is the only one of all the hundreds before the public which meets the ideal conditions. It is recommended by Physicians as a regulary suitable for the use of ladies and children. TRY ONE BOX. THE PRICE IS ONLY ONE SHILLING. Prepared only by the LAXATIVE CO., LTD., Budapest, Hungary.

WHAT'S LIKE US?

It is the privilege of most nations which have over done anything to be proud of, to once a year regard with the cheerful complacency that a sense of superiority permits, all the other peoples of the earth. This is the Scots' right to-morrow—the right of those who drew their first breath in bonnie Scotland or the descendants of those of Scotia's sons who wandered in the spacious days that used to be to the uttermost parts of the earth to foregather and give free expression to the sentiment which introduces this article. Modesty is an excellent virtue, but undue modesty simply means hiding one's light under a bushel. Scottish men prefer to let it shine before men. It is regrettably true that there still linger a few Englishmen who, from business jealousy or some such disreputable cause, lose no opportunity of denouncing Scots for their clannishness and what they are pleased to call their caninness.

There remains in a few quarters something of that sentiment which induced

Cleland in the seventeenth century to pen that despicable epigram:

Had Cain been Scot, God would have changed his doom—

Not forced him wander, but confined him home.

Of course it has to be remembered that at that time the more parochial-minded dwellers in the region south of the Tweed were filled with spleen because so many of the prizes of public life had fallen into Scottish hands.

Obviously the men who hired poets who like Cleland were willing to of him they deemed their King they gladly threw away their lives and even sacrificed the futures of those who were nearest and dearest to them. No men could do more. Scottish men have, however, achieved fame elsewhere than on the tented field. The deep sea shuttles which thread the waterways of the world are generally worked by a silent Scot whose very existence is scarcely headed by the 'first class passenger' who so aroused the ire of McAllister. In every walk of life where care, sobriety and integrity are essential there will the Scottish man be found. Is it then, as the Americans chastely put it, that their heads have grown too large for their hats which compels them to ask: 'What's like us?'

Ruskin has left us a work entitled 'Ethics of Dust.' We are concerned here with the ethics—or otherwise—of mud.

A trip along Queen's Road yesterday morning was suggestive, and the vision, if not pleasant to the eye, was at least provocative of reflection, and indeed at times of language. There had been a slight shower during the night, the consequence of which was mud and slush everywhere. The mud too was of a peculiarly black consistency, and almost as slippery for the pedestrian as ice.

Peddles which had absorbed as much of this black mud as had not resolutely refused to stick to the street, were a sight to be remembered. The ricksha coolies panted through it as best they could, and at times had almost as much difficulty to keep their footing as the cabhorse in London when the roads are covered with ice. If a lady had occasion to cross the road, as there are no sweepers, she was compelled to pick her way, and to hold her dress high to prevent contamination.

If a cyclist ventured forth, he must perforce proceed cautiously, and might congratulate himself did he reach his journey's end without finding his vehicle in one gutter, his body in the other and his hat in the middle of the road. Of course no government can prevent the rain from falling when it is disposed to visit us, but surely something might be attempted and even done to cleanse the streets of this thistly black mud. It seems to us that the time has come when the whole of this important thoroughfare should be repaved, not with broken granite as heretofore, but with material which would form a surface which could be kept clean. It would not seem a Utopian task to pave Queen's Road with wooden blocks—not uneven granite as is being sampled in Queen's Road West. A small section of wood blocking has already been attempted in front of the Hongkong Hotel. Whole cities have been paved in this way in Australia, and miles of roads in some of the cities of England, especially in London. This would furnish an even surface for the rickshas, would be productive of little dust, and at stated times could be washed refreshingly clean.
